

Editorial

As always it is a great honour to be once again involved in the Ceylon Journal of otolaryngology (CJLO) for the year 2019 through 2018. This year has seen a number of changes to the outlook of our journal in keeping with JPPS (Journal Publishing Practices Standards, <https://www.journalquality.info/en/>) recommendations. As you might be aware our journal which is online (<https://cjo.sljol.info/>) currently has a one star rating through JPPS and we hope to elevate it to 2 stars and later three hopefully in the near future.

We would also like to welcome Mr David Phillips, consultant ENT surgeon, South Warwickshire NHS Hospital (UK), and Dr Dharshika Tennekoon, consultant ENT surgeon, Sri Jayewardenepura Teaching Hospital (SL) to our editorial board along with Dr Bimantha Perera who has been made copy-editor for our journal.

We have received multiple case reports, research studies and audits for publication this year reflecting the hard work our ENT community does within the confines of limited resources. We also appreciate the effort the authors and our editorial board have put into the publications and also the alterations they made in keeping with our new guideline consensus.

We would like to remind our readers that online submission via our web portal following registration will enable personalised feedback regarding submissions and also make peer reviewing and online uploading much easier for the editorial team.

As always, we have the potential; it is imperative that we let the world know it. Keep onpublishing.
