

Editorial

Welcome to the latest edition of Ceylon Journal of Otolaryngology (CJOL). As always it has been a great honour to be a part of the editorial team for the year 2020 through 2019. We are pleased to say that this year we have a very interesting mix of researches and case reports reflecting the increasing interest in research amongst peers and postgraduate trainees. In fact, the enthusiasm for publishing has never been greater amongst ENTs here in Sri Lanka.

We would also like to thank the authors for trusting our journal to publish their work. The researches involving transsphenoidal hypophysectomy and Piriform fossa sinus tract surgery (PFST) have spanned several years and we have all been eagerly awaiting their results. Also, in keeping with the theme of this year's annual academic sessions the research article on endoscopic ear surgery is timely and most welcome.

All articles were run through our Ithenticate™ software and those that did not make the initial cut were recommended for resubmission after appropriate alterations. I also would like to remind authors to read the author guidelines carefully as the editorial team had to deal with an increasing workload of submissions this year. We apologize if certain articles could not be published in this year's journal but we do hope you will be able to resubmit for our next one.

As always, we have the potential; it is imperative that we let the world know it. Keep Publishing!

Thank you

Lt Col (Dr) Akram Drahaman
Dr Zafarullah Wazeer

Co-Editors
Ceylon Journal of Otolaryngology (CJOL)